

79 Victims of Trafficking (VoTs) identified

12 Women

54 Men

8 Boys

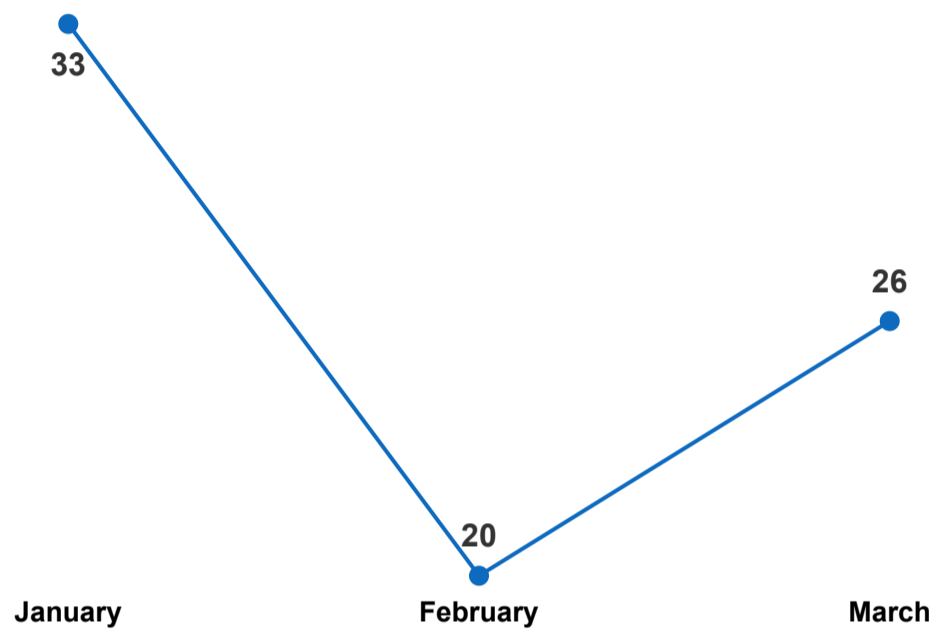

5 Girls

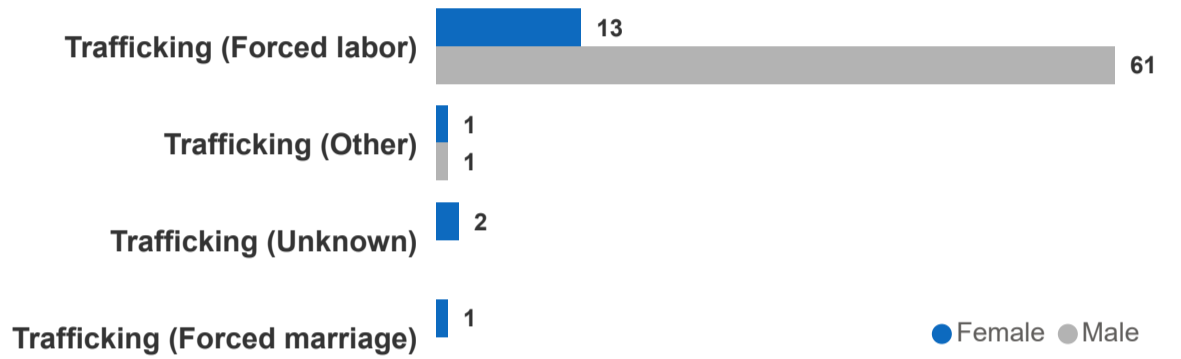

The Dashboard reflects available data about Rohingya refugees' victims of human trafficking that ATWG members have identified and assisted. 79 refugees were identified between January and March 2024. The data in this dashboard is generated only from information communicated by ATWG members and should not be interpreted as showing the extent of prevalence of human trafficking in the camps. These statistics may be subject to change.

Among the VoTs identified, 78% of individuals identify as male and 22% identify as female.

Number of identified victims by Month

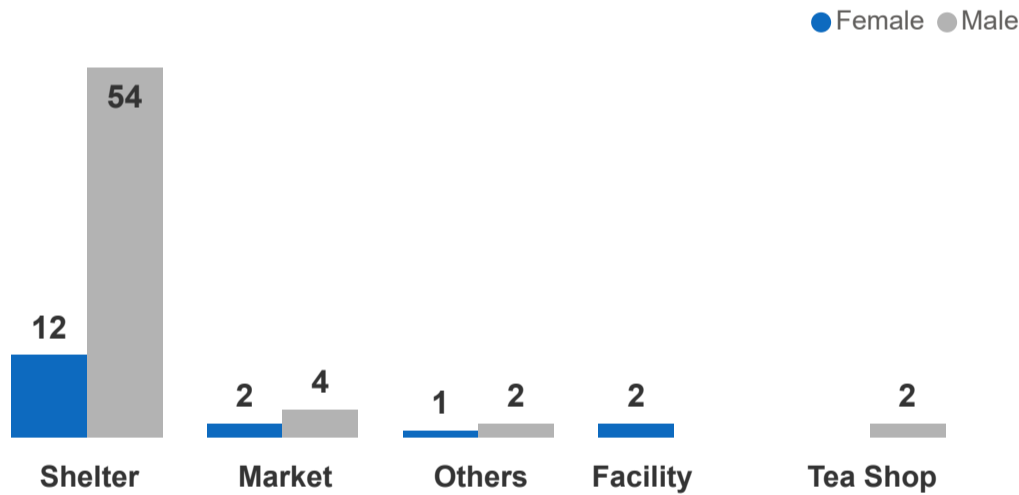

Type of Trafficking/Form of Exploitation

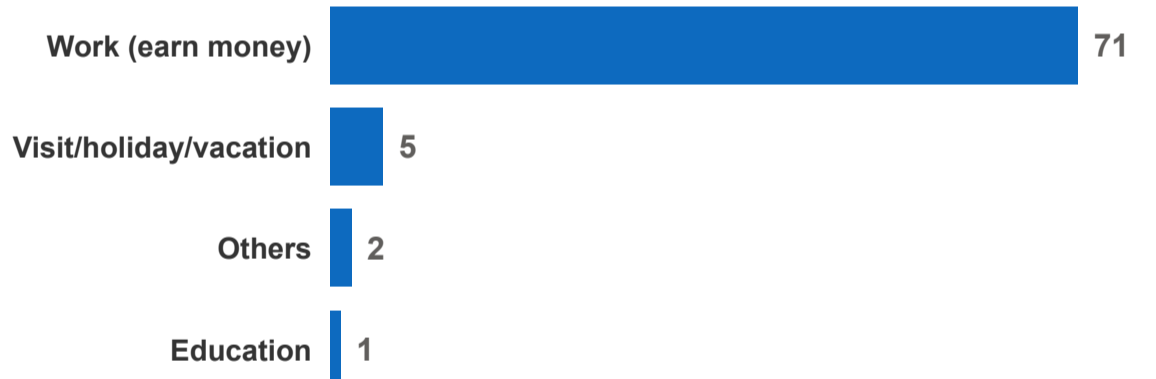

93% of individuals identified were victims of trafficking for the purpose of forced labor. 2% of individuals were identified in the "Other" category; these involved trafficking for the purposes of forced begging and trafficking for the purposes of being sold to a criminal group to perform tasks for the group (the victim was released before they were required to perform the tasks). 2% of individuals were identified in the "Unknown" category, these are cases that were suspected to be trafficking for the purposes of sexual exploitation, but there was not enough information about the intended exploitation to place it in that category, as the victim was freed before the exploitation actually took place.

Place of Recruitment by Gender

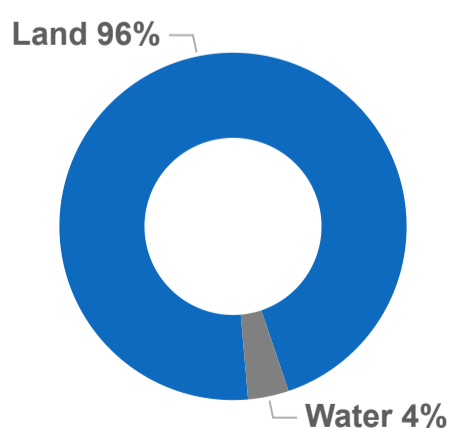

The recruitment or initial engagement into the trafficking situation mostly occurs while refugees are at their shelters (homes)

Promises During Recruitment

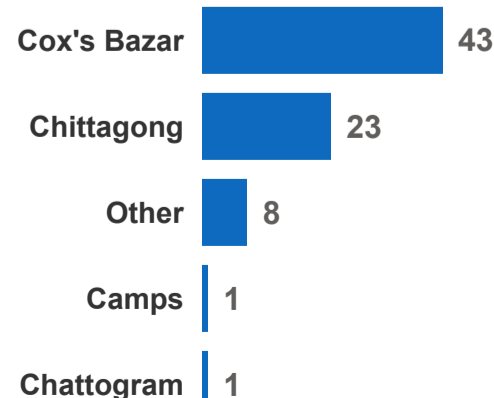

90% of reported cases, promises of work were made during the recruitment stage. In most instances, the exploitation involved activities such as agriculture, construction, domestic work, livestock raising, and day labor.

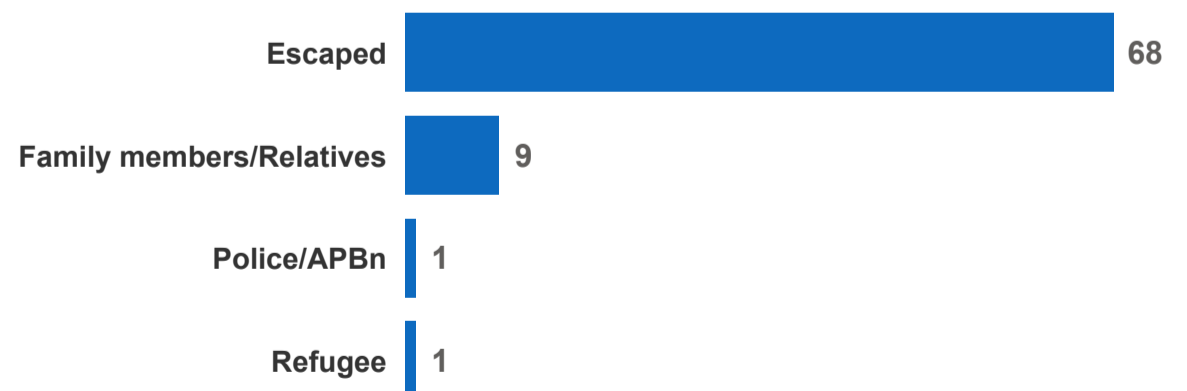

Mode of Transport and Intended Destination

Three cases were reportedly headed to Myanmar, while one case was intended for Malaysia.
